Website Vs Web portal

A website is a collection of interlinked web pages typically hosted from a single domain. A website is accessible over the internet or a private network such as Local Area Network (LAN) through an address known as Uniform Resource Locator (URL).

Features of website

Content visible to everyone.

No login required.

Content remains same for every user

Web portal

personal location on internet, can be reached only with user id and password

Specially designed website that brings information from diverse sources, like e-mail, online forum and search engine, together in a uniform way. Usually, each information source gets its dedicated area on the page for displaying information (a portlet); often, the user can configure which ones to display.

Feature of web portal

- Public and private interface.
- Access for multiple user roles.
- Personal login is required.
- Dynamic content changes frequently than websites.
- Content is unique to the user based on group member settings.
- Offers content form various sources.

Classification of Web portal

Horizontal Web portal

Specialized portal for a number of stakeholders to go into for serving a specific purpose

Vertical Portal

- A vertical portal / "vortal" is a specialized entry point to a specific market, subject area or interest.

- "Vertical Information Portals" (VIPs): provide news, editorial content, digital publications, and e-commerce capabilities.

- Provide dynamic multimedia applications including social networking, video posting and blogging.

BANARAS HINDU UNIVERSITY

BHU
capital of knowledge

"India is not a country of the Hindus only. It is a country of the Muslims, the Christians and the Parsees too. The country can gain strength and develop itself only when the people of the different communities in India live in mutual goodwill and harmony . It is my earnest hope and prayer that this centre of life and light which is coming into existence, will produce students who will not only be intellectually equal to the best of their fellow students in other parts of the world, but will also live a noble life, love their country and be loyal to the Supreme ruler."
